

Weyerhaeuser Company v. United States Fish and Wildlife Service and the Center for Biological Diversity

Case No. 17-71 | U.S. Supreme Court | District of Columbia, United States

Filed amicus brief in the U.S. Supreme Court on behalf of a group of former U.S. Fish and Wildlife officials defending the designation of unoccupied habitat as critical habitat to provide for the recovery of the dusky gopher frog under the Endangered Species Act.